LEAVE TAKING.

The Retiring Cabinet Bid a Tearful Farewell to Their Secretaries and Subordinates.

President Cleveland's New Cabinet are Administered the Oaths of Office by Justice Field.

Ex-Secretary McCulloch Talks About His Successor and His Financial Policy.

A General Leave Taking.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—In the state war and navy department buildings this morning the retiring secretaries bade the chiefs and clerks who served under them, a good bye and complimented them on their services. Secretaries Frelinghuysen and Lincoln met their subordinates in the office which the heads of the state and war department have occupied. Secretary Chandler called upon his subordinates in their respective rooms. No official business of any character was transacted by the retiring officers prior to the incoming secretaries taking the oath of office. The building was filled with visitors.

Congressman Wheeler, of Alabama, headed a delegation that entered the apartments occupied by the secretary of the navy. The members of the delegation were men above the average in size, and numbered about a dozen. They were introduced to the retiring secretary every one as a general or colonel. Chandler, who is a man small in statue, quietly folded his hands in front of him and plaintively remarked: "Gentlemen, give time to pray." When he turned to Mr. Wheeler and was about to ask, "Where are the judges?" he found the congressman elect had left the room for a moment. He soon returned with four Alabamians, to all of whom he gave the title of "Judge." A general laugh followed and the party then engaged in conversation.

TAKING THE OATH OF OFFICE.

Promptly at 12 o'clock four of President Cleveland's cabinet, Bayard, Whitney, Endicott and Garland, entered the office of the secretary of state. Mrs. Endicott, wife of the new secretary of war, accompanied the party, as did also Justice Field, of the United States supreme court. Immediately after entering Bayard took the oath of office, which was administered by Justice Field. Secretary Frelinghuysen and Ex-assistant Secretary Davis were present, also Senator Payne, of Ohio, and Ex-attorney General Pierrepont. The party then went to the room occupied by Secretary Chandler where Whitney took the oath of office as secretary of the navy. In Secretary Lincoln's office, where Lieutenant General Sheridan and staff and other officers of the war department had assembled, the oath was administered to Endicott. Mr. Endicott entered the room on the arm of Bayard. As soon as Justice Field had administered the oath the various army officers were in turn introduced to the new secretary by Mr. Lincoln. Attorney General Garland was sworn in to office at the department of justice. The oath was administered by Justice Field in the presence of Ex-Attorney General Brewster, Secretarys Bayard, Manning, Whitney, Endicott, Lamar and a few others. Brewster will continue to act as attorney general until Monday, when he will formally present his successor to the United States supreme court.

The party proceeded from the department of justice to the treasury department, where the oath of office was administered to Secretary Manning.

In addition to those already named there were present Ex-Secretary McCulloch, Assistant Secretary Coon, W. H. Barnum, of Connecticut; Smith M. Weed, of New York, and many others including several ladies. Soon after Secretary Manning had qualified, all the bureau officers and chief divisions visited his office and paid their respects.

The New Secretary.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—The formal transfer of the treasury department from ex-Secretary McCulloch to Secretary Manning took place this morning. The new secretary was escorted to the department by the retiring secretary, who called at the house for him. Soon after their arrival Mr. McCulloch presented Assistant Secretaries French and Coon to Secretary Manning, who had not yet taken the oath.

He said he would probably qualify during the day, but as he did not propose to enter actively into the business of the office until Monday, he requested Assistant Secretary Coon to sign the mail for him to-day as acting secretary. Mr. Manning and Mr. McCulloch then retired to the secretaries private office and remained closeted together for several hours talking over the business and personalities of the department. A large number of persons called to pay their respects to the new secretary.

Secretary McCulloch said yesterday, in speaking of the change in the administration, that he took it for granted Mr. Manning shared the views of President Cleveland on the question of finance and as the president's views on that subject were in accord with his own he did not anticipate any change in the present financial policy of the government.

It is understood that General Hazen has written a letter to the new secretary of war asking that no steps be taken to dissolve the court martial recently ordered to try that official, it having been intimated that such action would be taken by President Cleveland, and requesting he may be tried in justice to himself.

Marquis of Lorne Ridicules the Idea of War Between England and Russia.

An Extra Session Probable.

Special dispatch to THE SENTINEL.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 7.—Governor Gray vetoed the militia bill to-day.

Another effort to make the appropriation bill a special order for this afternoon was voted down, so that an extra session is very probable.

The appelate court bill passed to a third reading.

The Skating Match.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

NEW YORK, March 7.—The score of the roller skating match at 10 o'clock this morning was Donovan 1,043 miles, Boyst, 983; Omelia, 964; Maddocks, 963, Schock, 905.

In the roller skating tournament Donovan made 1,000 miles between 5 and 6 this morning and the garden rang with cheers and applause. With one exception Donovan had at that time eclipsed the longest distance ever accomplished by any human being in six days in any mode of locomotion that requires physical exertion. The exception was the six day bicycle record of Charles Torrent, in England, when 1,272 miles were made.

Rhea as the American Countess.

The new play bearing the above title, by Mr. Harold Carroll, received its first representation at the National theatre, Washington, in the presence of one of the most distinguished audience ever gathered in that edifice. The president, members of his cabinet, supreme court justices, senators, representatives and distinguished people from every walk in life were in attendance. Everything had been done to make the occasion a memorable one, and no detail was neglected that could add to the effectiveness and completeness of the initial production of the play. Two new sets of scenery were provided and Mlle. Rhea and her company were drilled persistently in their parts. The result was one of the smoothest and most satisfactory first-night performances ever seen on the stage. The American Countess will be rendered at the Temple next Tuesday night.

THE ALICE OATES COMPANY.

The Chicago News says: "Miss Alice Oates and her burlesque company began a week's engagement in 'Robin Hood' at the Lyceum last night, being received with much favor. The ballad singing of Miss Oates and the dancing of Betti Daubl, late of the 'Seven Ravens' company, were attractive features. The Alice Oates company appears at the Temple to-night.

Rejoicing Over the Inauguration.

To the Editor of THE SENTINEL:

A grand time was had last Wednesday night at the residence of J. R. Schane, in Aboit township, the occasion being on account of the inauguration of Cleveland and Hendricks. A large crowd assembled from that part of the country. The dancing was in the old school house No. 2, which was nicely decorated. The music was furnished by the Roussan orchestra. A fine supper was served and Mr. and Mrs. Schane were thanked by their legion of friends.

Woman's Suffering and Relief

Those languid, tiresome sensations, causing you to feel scarcely able to be on your feet; that constant drain that is taking from your system all its former elasticity; driving the bloom from your cheeks; that continual strain upon your vital forces, rendering you irritable and fretful, can easily be removed by the use of that marvelous remedy, Hop Bitters. Irregularities and obstructions of your system, are relieved at once while the special cause of periodical pain are permanently removed. None receive so much benefit, and none are so profoundly grateful, and show such an interest in recommending Hop Bitters as women.

A Postal Card Story.

I was affected with kidney and urinary Trouble—
"For twelve years!"
After trying all the doctors and patent medicines I could hear of, I used two bottles of Hop

ATONING BLOOD.

Of the Son of God, Who Was Sacrificed for the Sins of Mankind.

Through His Death is Forgiveness Found and the Gateway to Eternal Life Opened.

"Alas! And Did My Saviour Bleed and Did My Sovereign Die."

There was a great "Harvest Home" in the Brooklyn Tabernacle Sunday morning. One hundred and ninety-two new members stood up in the aisles and received the right hand of fellowship from Dr. Talmage, and to each one an appropriate word of counsel or congratulation was addressed. This makes the communion membership of this church three thousand two hundred and ninety-one. The opening hymn was:

"Alas, and did my Savior bleed,
And did my sovereign die?"

The subject of the sermon was "The Blood," and the text was from I. John, i., 7: "The blood of Jesus Christ, His Son, cleanseth us from all sin." Dr. Talmage said:

Eighteen centuries ago there lived one Jesus. Publius Lentulus, in a letter to the Roman Senate, describes him as "a man of stature somewhat tall; his hair the color of a chestnut fully ripe, plain to the ears, whence downward it is more orient, curling and waving about the shoulders; in the midst of his forehead is a stream or partition of his hair; forehead plain and very delicate; his face, without spot or wrinkle, a lovely red; his nose and mouth so forked as nothing can be represented; his beard thick, in color like his hair, not very long; his eyes gray, quick and clear." He must die. The French army in Italy found a brass plate on which was a copy of his death warrant, signed by John Zorobabel, Raphael Robanis, Daniel Rolani and Capet. Sometimes men on the scaffold have been rescued by the mob. No such attempt was made in this case, for the mob was against him. From 9 a. m. till 3 p. m. Jesus hung dying. It was a scene of death. We are so constituted that nothing is so exciting as blood. It is not the child's cry in the street that so arouses you as the crimson dripping from its lip. In the dark hall, seeing the finger marks of blood on the plastering, you cry: "What terrible deed has been done here?" Looking upon this suspended victim of the cross we thrill with the sight of blood—blood dripping from thorn and nail, blood rushing upon his cheek, blood saturating his garments, blood gathering in a pool beneath. There is one crimson word in the text that rouses up your attention and calls back that scene: "The blood of Jesus Christ, His son, cleanseth us from all sin."

The blood of the Cross was royal blood. Through our democratic preferences we may in theory disregard royal pretensions, yet when we see the son of a king our liveliest interest is aroused. If a king of an island, however insignificant, visit this land, what throngs turn out to see him! It is called an honor to have in one's veins the blood of the house of Stuart or the house of Hapsburg. Is it nothing when I point you to the outpouring blood of the King of the universe? In England the name of Henry was so great that its honors were divided among different reigns. It was Henry I., and Henry II., and Henry III., and Henry IV., and Henry V. In France the name of Louis was so favorably regarded that it was Louis I., Louis II., Louis III., and so on. But this King of whom I speak was Christ the First, Christ the Last, and Christ the Only. He reigned before the czar mounted the throne of Russia, or the throne of Austria was created—"King Eternal, Immortal." Through the indulgences of the royal family the physical life degenerated, and some of the kings have been almost imbecile, and their bodies weak, and their blood thin and watery; but the crimson life that flowed upon Calvary had in it the health of the immortal God.

A king dying! You remember when one of the czars of Russia was in his fatal sickness that bulletins were every hour dispatched from the palace, saying: "The king is better," or "The king is worse," or "The king is delirious," or "The king rested easier through the night," or "The king is dying," or "The king is dead." The bells tolled it, the flags signaled it, the telegraphs flashed it. Tell it now to all the earth and all the heavens—Jesus, our King, is sick with His last sickness. Let couriers carry the swift dispatch. His pains are worse; He is breathing a last groan; through His body quivers the last anguish; the King is dying; the King is dead! Ye who come round about the cross, look out how you tread on what you see beneath. It is royal blood. It is said that the Unitarians make too much of the humanity of Christ. I respond that we make too little. If some Roman surgeon standing under the cross had caught one drop of the blood on his hand and analyzed it, it would have been found to have the same plasma, the same disk, the same fibrine, the same albumen. It was unmistakably human blood. It is a man that laugs there. His bones are of the same material as ours. His nerves are sensitive like ours. If it were an angel being despoiled I would not feel it so much, for it belongs to a different order of beings. But my Saviour is a man, and my whole sympathy is aroused. I can imagine how the spikes felt—how hot the temples burned—what deathly sickness seized his heart—how mountain and city and mob swam away from his dying vision—something of the meaning of that cry for help that makes the blood of all the ages curdle with horror. "My God! My God! Why hast Thou forsaken me?"

I go still further and say it was a brother's blood. If you saw an entire stranger maltreated and his life oozing away on the pavement, you would feel indignant; but, if coming along the street you saw a company of villains beating out the life of your brother the sight of his blood would make you mad. You would bound into the affray at the peril of losing your own life; you would rush in saying: "You vagabonds! This is my brother. I dare you to touch him again." You would fight until you fell dead beside him. That is your brother, maltreated on the cross. They spit on him and slapped him in the face. How do you feel about that. What are your emotions as you hear the falling of the blood upon the leaves beneath—drip, drip, drip? Do you not feel as though, with supernatural power, you could rush upon the mob? Do you not feel as if—standing close, with your back against Him, and with one good sword in your hand and a cry to God for help—you could hew down the desperadoes that assailed him? But you cannot help. The blood rushes from the victim, and there he hangs—your dead brother. What is worse—shall I tell it? You slew Him! I charge it upon myself and then upon all ye who hear me to-day the awful crime of fratricide. His blood is on our hands. Bring me a laver, quick; that I may way wash it off. Show me the pool where I may be cleansed of the terrible stain! I have found it. It is the fountain opened for all sin; and though sin were as scarlet, it shall be as snow.

It was substitutionary blood. Our sins cried to heaven for vengeance. Some one must die. Shall it be us or Christ? "Let it be Me," said Jesus. You were drafted for the last war and some one took your place. You were in debt; not being able to meet the obligation, some one paid it. You can easily understand Christ went in to fight our battles and to pay our debts. The debt is canceled; the captives are released; the shackles are broken; the prison is opened. Blood paid the price; blood washed away the pollution; blood sealed the agreement. The blood of Paul that soaked the dust of the guillotine; the blood of Hugh Latimer that simmered in the fire; the blood of the high-souled martyrs that reddened the mouths of the lions in the coliseum, have just as much worth to your soul as the blood of Christ unless you take this last as expiatory, and feel the truth that "the blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth from all sin."

Come, then, and get your sins pardoned. I do not ask you to come to a private confessional or to whisper in my ears your offenses, but, sitting where you are, to accept this moment the blood-cleansing, first, for that old sin. Do you ask, "What sin do you mean?" I mean that old sin that you committed years ago. It may have been two years, ten years or twenty years. You know when it was. I think that old things are like other debts—they increase by having the interest added on. They are ten fold greater now, and have been multiplied by all of your opportunities of having them pardoned. Does that old sin present its dun at the door of your soul to-day? Can you not pay it? Does it threaten to carry you off to jail? Does it propose to sell you out? Better get together all your bonds and mortgages and certificates of stock and United States securities. Come, let me count them! Not enough. Bring all the clever things you have ever done. Let me count them! Not enough. Bring all that you possess. You say, "I have brought everything!" Alas, that you can not meet the obligation. You must die! "No! no! no!" says a voice from heaven. The blood of Jesus Christ; the royal blood, the human blood, the expiatory blood, cleanseth from all sin. "What! is that old sin gone?" Yes, I heard it topple over and splash into the depth of the sea. It sinks like lead. There is no condemnation to those who are in Christ Jesus.

Circumstances aggravate sins. If a child does wrong, not wittingly, you excuse it; but when we do wrong we know it. Every time a sin is committed conscience tolls a funeral bell. We may laugh and pretend not to hear it, but hear it we must. Our sins are against warnings and reproofs, and doubly aggravated. This man's sins are more heinous than the transgressions of that man because he had a better bringing up. Here is a man who twenty years ago kneeled at a Methodist altar. He went a while on the road to heaven, but then got tired and put off in another direction. Where he has been since he began to backslide; he and his God only know. This I do know, he is wretchedly unhappy. There is no such nest of scorpions this side of hell as the heart of the backslider. He is the last man that ever returns. The publicans and the harlots come in before him. Where, O man, is that family altar that you once lifted? Where is the closet of prayer that you once frequented? Are you as happy now as you used to be? Your common sense teaches you that the man who came to Christ and heard the full expression of God's love, and then went away to betray the Lord, must drink the bitterest gall, and the thunder that at last drives him away will roll and crash with all the accumulated wrath of God omnipotent; and yet to-day my text sweeps a circle of pardon around all these accumulated sins. Fire may not be able to burn them out; hoofs may not be able to trample them out; hammers may not be able to pound them out; but here is blood that will wash them out. Come! come! I take you with my right hand, while with my left I catch the warm blood that gushes from the heart of Christ and pour it over your soul, and, lo! the blackness of your sin is gone forever! Oh, that the red hand of Christ to-day would rub all our sins away!

But you say, "These things are not appropriate to me, for I am a moral man." How about your thoughts? You see my right hand and you see my left hand, and one just as plain as the other. So with the sins of the heart and the sins of the life—one is just as plain in God's sight as the other. Yes have not been guilty of murder, you say. Are you sure about that? Have you ever hated anybody? Then you are a murderer. I, John, iii., 15: "Whoso hateth his brother is a murderer." You say you have never been guilty of theft. Are you sure about that? I acknowledge you have never taken anything from your fellow-man; but have you not taken days and hours that belonged to God for your own purposes? If it wrong to steal from a man, it is more wicked to rob God.

If I could marshal before you all the sins of the best man in this house today this whole audience would shriek out with horror. Sins against God and man; sins against Sabbaths and sacraments; sins against body and soul; sins against light and knowledge; sins against Sinai and Calvary; sins against the grave and the resurrection; sins against the judgment; sins against the throne of God and the mansions of glory. I blow the trumpet and call up all the sins of your past life. I wave them here from the past. I stamp them up from beneath—gather them into companies of hundreds; into regiments of thousands; into brigades of ten thousands. We have a host vaster than that of Xerxes. Let the largest of the hundred sins be captain over the company. Let the largest of the thousand iniquities be colonel over the regiment. Let the swarthiest transgression of your lifetime be general over all the host. Together let them wheel and march and fire. How the couriers of death dash up and down the line! How the great batteries of woe belch forth the sulphurous smoke of hell and boom with the cannonading of eternal destruction! The host of the sins innumerable, marching on to capture thy soul! One man against a million armed iniquities! Who can go forth and meet them? We must fall back and fall down. Are there no allies to help? In all the round of God's universe is there no one to take our part? Arise, ye seas, and whelm the host! Strike, ye lightnings, and consume the foe! But the wave strikes the beach and falls back, crying, "No help in me!" The lightning sheathes itself in the black scabbard of the midnight cloud and says, "No help in me!"

But yonder I see a white horse in hot haste coming this way. Make room for the courier! He swings his sword. Good news! Good news! The Captain of Salvation comes to the rescue. Fall back, my sins! Fall back, my sorrows! Allies of light and love, to arms! to arms! The host of our sins scatter in defeat and our delivered soul shouts, "Victory through our Lord Jesus Christ." At the seashore you go down on the beach and into the water, hand in hand, to bathe. None but those who have tried it know the exhilaration. I would that we might all join hands and go down by scores and by hundreds and by thousands to bathe in the great sea of God's forgiveness. Let us not stand on the margin and paddle the ripples with our feet, but plung in until the waves go over our heads and we come up again washed clean from all from all our sins. Cry mightily that the blood of the cross may avail for you. If it cleanse you not it will plead against you; and all those gaping wounds of Christ through an unknown eternity will haunt your soul with the thought of what might have been. Oh, take your feet out out of your brother's blood. Go not down, condemned at last, for fratricide and regicide and Deicide. Better for thee that Calvary had never borne its burden, and the lips of Christ had never addressed thee in invitations, if, rejecting all, thou goest into eternal desolation, thy hands and feet bedabbled with the blood of the Son of God. O, ye dying but immortal man! Ye blood-bought judgment-bound hearers! Repent and believe and hear and live! "How shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation!"

HOPE!

A young man named John Naves, living near here, had an eating cancer on his face, which had eaten away his nose, part of his cheek, and extended up nearly to his eye. It was one of the most unsightly sores that I had ever seen. His throat finally became involved to such an extent that he could only swallow liquid food. After using all the remedies without checking the ravages of the eating cancer, his general health was broken down, he was confined to his bed, and thought it to be only a question of time about his death from the cancer. I put him on Swift's Specific as a last resort, and he began to improve with the first dose. His general health improved at once, and rapidly; his throat got well; the ravages of the cancer were soon stopped; it began to heal around the edges; and after a few months treatment with S. S. S. he has gotten entirely well. His face is all healed over with new flesh, and his general health is excellent. His recovery is wonderful. M. F. CRUMLEY, M.D. Ogletborpe, Ga.

I am in fine health—not better for twenty years. I have gained twenty-five pounds since I commenced taking SWIFT'S SPECIFIC R. S. BRADFORD.

Snatched from the Grave.

Mrs. Sarah E. Turner and her mother Mrs. P. B. Bryan, for nineteen years residents of Humboldt, Tenn., make the following statements as to the merits of Swift's Specific. Mrs. Turner's case is well known in this community. She says:

"I was afflicted for two or more years with Eczema and Erysipelas combined. My whole system was broken down, my strength and appetite gone, and I became as helpless as a child, being lifted from place to place by my friends. I was treated by the best physicians in the community with iodine of potash and the other usual remedies for such cases. I was given up to die by my friends. My sufferings were beyond description, and I had lost all hope of recovery. Last January I was induced to try Swift's Specific, having received a pamphlet from the company detailing its merits. The first half dozen bottles had the effect to bring back hope to my heart, and the thought of being well again brought joy and gladness to the household. I have taken altogether 24 bottles. The sores have all healed up and disappeared; my strength has returned, and I am able to do all kinds of housework. Swift's Specific, I honestly believe, snatched me from the grave, and I do not know how to be grateful enough for my recovery.

MRS. SARAH E. TURNER."

I know that S. S. S. has saved my daughter's life. She was the most wrecked looking object that I ever saw when she commenced taking it, being perfectly helpless. I thank God that we heard of it. It has saved my child.

THE NEW PRESIDENT.

A CHIEF EXECUTIVE INAUGURATED FOR THE TWENTY-FIFTH TERM.

Scenes of the Most Important Scenes in Washington on That Memorable Day—At the Capitol and White House.

THE PROCESSION UP PENNSYLVANIA AVENUE TO THE CAPITOL.

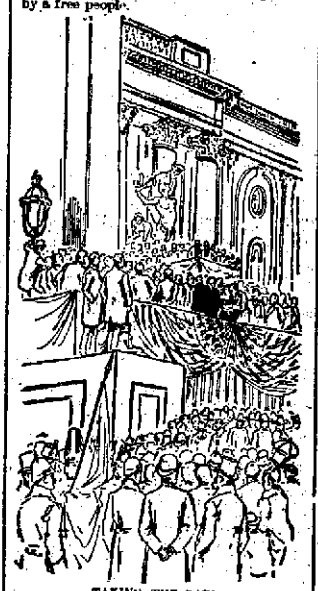
The sight which was witnessed on Pennsylvania avenue last Wednesday was one of the most gorgeous and brilliant ever seen in the nation's capital. In some respects it eclipsed the pageant of twenty years ago, when the historic avenue resounded to the tramp of the thousands of battle-scarred veterans who passed in review before Gen. Grant at the close of the war. From an early hour on Wednesday morning Washington looked as if it were an armed camp. At every street corner could be seen military organizations on the qui vive, and anxiously awaiting the command to move. There were the familiar blue of the line regiments, the various colors of the state militia, the peculiar and rich uniform of the continentals, the trim and handsome looking cadets from West Point and Annapolis, dressed respectively in gray and blue; the artillerymen sitting stiff and upright on their gun carriages and tumbrils, the mounted men of the signal corps, the blue jackets and the "lobsters" as the marines are familiarly called; the glittering scarlet tunics, laced with gold, of the Marine corps band, while ever and anon staff officers, resplendent in gold laces and bright, broad sashes, dashed hither and thither.

SCENE IN THE SENATE.

The Forty-eighth congress having expired on March 4 at 12 m., the president (Arthur) previously issued an executive proclamation convening the senate in special session, so that the cabinet of the incoming president might be confirmed. The ceremonies in the senate are brief and simple. The vice president makes a brief farewell speech, and at its conclusion announces that he is ready to administer the oath of office to the vice president-elect. As Senator Edmunds said this he introduced Vice President Hendricks, who was received with applause, and made a brief address. The oath of office was then administered to him, after which Mr. Edmunds declared the senate of the United States adjourned sine die. For a minute there was a pause—a pause which marked the death of the old congress and the birth of the new. Then, Vice President Hendricks mounted the desk, gave a sharp rap on it, and exclaimed: "The senate will come to order." The proclamation was then read convening the senate in special session. The roll having been called and the new senators sworn in, the senate awaited the coming of the president and president-elect. When they arrived a procession was formed, consisting of the cabinet, diplomatic corps, supreme justices and others, to the east front, where the president took the oath of office.

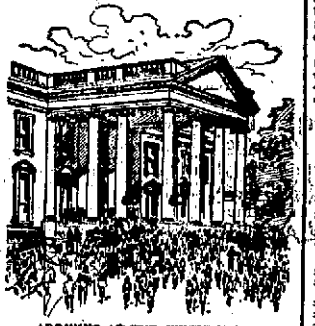
THE PRESIDENT-ELECT READING HIS INAUGURAL.

The picture above shows the president in the act of reading his inaugural address from the east front of the capitol, the spot which has become historic from similar associations. Under the shadow cast by the grand dome—the dome, which has echoed to the tread of Clay, Webster, Seward, Garfield, Shepard, Conkling, Blaine—with a background formed of distinguished statesmen, prominent military and naval officers, and diplomats in court dress and jeweled orders, took place the simple ceremony which announced to the world that the twenty-fifth president of the United States had been inaugurated, and had been intrusted with the power conferred upon him by a free people.



TAKING THE OATH.

The administering of the oath is a simple although impressive ceremony, from its nature. The oath of office, as prescribed by the constitution, was slowly read by Chief Justice Waite, of the supreme court of the United States. At its conclusion President Cleveland swore to keep its provisions, and then kissed the open Bible which was extended to him. Then shouts of throats yelled out a hoarse hurrah, salvos of artillery rent the air and Grover Cleveland, twenty-fifth president of the United States, smilingly bowed his acknowledgments to the people who had witnessed the ceremony. The procession was then formed. The senators returned to their duties, the president entered his carriage, surrounded by his military escort, clattered up Pennsylvania avenue to the White House—his home for the next four years.



ARRIVING AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

At the White House the new president and the outgoing executive partook of lunch. When this interesting event had been concluded the president accompanied by distinguished guests, took his stand on a pavilion which had been erected on the White House lawn, overlooking Pennsylvania avenue. Again the crowd broke forth into cheers as they recognized him. Necks were craned down the avenue to catch the first glimpse of the procession as it swung up Fifteenth street into Pennsylvania avenue. Every ear was at the highest pitch of tension to catch the first sound of martial music. Hark! There it comes. The policemen push back the crowds on the sidewalks. There is a moment of expectancy. Then comes a platoon of mounted police followed by a band playing a lively air. And now in rapid succession the procession swoops by. As the stand is neared commanding officers roar out hoarse commands, subordinate officers take them up, there is a sharp rattle of rifles, the sunlight gleams on the officers' swords, the batons of drum majors are cast up high in the air and dextrously caught as they come down, and as the column proudly marches on this honor of a marching salute is paid to the new president. Civic organizations pay their tribute of respect, and the bands fill the air with music, while the spectators gaze and applaud, too much interested to feel weary. This ends the day part of the inauguration ceremonies.

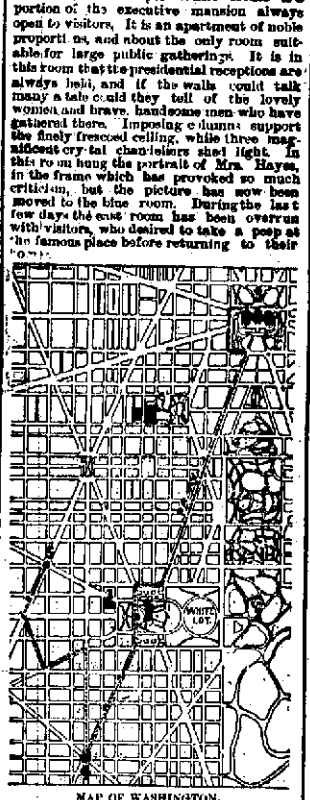
During the afternoon, after the passage of the procession, a vast number of the visitors spent hours in a scramble for dinner. The restaurants were of course inadequate; temporary shelters were erected on available vacant lots, where coffee and cakes were served. Alridly the tide of tired humanity begin to think of home, the afternoon and evening trains are loaded with returning visitors and yet there were 250,000 people who are to be entertained by the numerous balls, electric light exhibitions and fireworks.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND AT THE INAUGURATION BALL.

The inauguration ball caps the climax to Washington's great day. The ball was held in the new pension office, a magnificent structure not yet completed. Decorators and artists had done heroic work on it during the last few weeks, and when the Marine band struck up "Hail to the Chief," which was the signal for the entrance of the president, the sight was indeed a brilliant one. Thousands of dollars had been lavished on this part of the pageant, and the result showed the money had been well spent. The capitals of the lower columns round the hall were embellished with handsome colored shields, representing the arms of the several states and territories, draped on either side with three handsome American banners, with silver plated spear points on their shafts. Superb eight-foot banners made of the finest silk, were suspended from the ceiling, while from the center of the roof to either side hung in graceful festoons colored streamers, which were so numerous as to completely hide the bare wood of the construction. The eight immense pillars which divide the ball-room into three sections were covered with white muslin, and twining evergreen garlands were wound round the shafts. Silk curtains were drawn across the windows. The decorations were loaned, and the cost for hiring them amounted to $5,500. The president received on a dais under a canopy of real roses, standing in front of a chair made of similar flowers. In the canopy and chair were 300 roses, which cost 10 cents a piece.

VISITORS IN THE EAST ROOM.

The east room of the White House is a portion of the executive mansion always open to visitors. It is an apartment of noble proportions, and about the only room suitable for large public gatherings. It is in this room that the presidential receptions are always held, and if the walls could talk many a tale could they tell of the lovely women and brave, handsome men who have gathered there. Imposing columns support the finely frescoed ceiling, while three magnificent crystal chandeliers shed light. In this room hung the portrait of Mrs. Hayes, in the frame which has provoked so much criticism, but the picture has now been moved to the blue room. During the last few days the east room has been overrun with visitors, who desired to take a peep at the famous place before returning to their homes.



MAP OF WASHINGTON.

The above map shows the principal points of interest during the day. The route of the procession is indicated by the dotted lines. No. 1 is the Arlington; President Cleveland's temporary stopping place; No 2, the White House; No. 3, the capitol; No. 4, Washington circle, where the procession began it countermarch; No. 5, Thomas circle, where the procession was disbanded; No. 6, the pension building, where the inauguration ball was held; No. 7, Washington monument, where the fireworks were let off. Thousands of people were attracted by the display. There were set pieces of the president and vice president, the White House, capitol, the arms of the United States and many others. Thousands of rockets, Roman candles and bombs lent many-hued brilliancy to the scene.

HOTEL CORRIDOR THE NIGHT OF THE THIRD

There was a humorous side to the inauguration ceremonies. Once in every four years Washington hotel-keepers expect to make a fortune—and they generally realize their expectations. A place to sleep in, no matter whether it be big or little, is worth during the week of March 4 as much as would pay the rent for a year of very handsome apartments at other times. Fortunate is the person who has a place to lay his head when the excitement of the day is over, and if he has to make his bed on a billiard table, or in a bath tub, or on the piano, he laughs and consoles himself with the thought that inauguration only comes once in every four years. Hotel corridors look like the wards of hospitals. To slightly paraphrase Lord Tennyson: "Cots to the right of them, cots to the left of them, cots behind them, cots in front of them, while the sleepers snored and slumbered." Look at that man getting his forty winks on the stairs. Probably he would prefer a spring mattress, but he thinks the stairs are better than nothing.

Secretary of State.

THOMAS FRANCIS BAYARD.

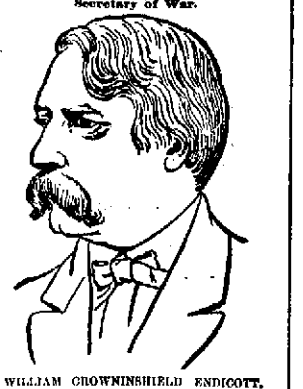
Three generations of Bayards have occupied exalted stations in congress and in our diplomatic services, and each has reflected honor thereon without deriving therefrom undue profit. Grandfather, son and grandson link the present to the revolutionary period of our national history. They have all been distinguished members of the United States senate. The two latter were members of that body from the same state for a time, which is the only instance of the kind that has occurred. The present member of this illustrious family, Thomas F. Bayard, is in his 57th year. He is tall, well built, healthy, and altogether a clean-looking man, and all acknowledge that his record harmonizes with his appearance. He has been sixteen years in the senate, and is looked upon in Washington as a type of official purity. He has been married twenty-eight years, and has twelve children, nine of whom are daughters. One of his sons teaches school in Maryland. Mrs. Bayard spends a part of each winter with her husband in Washington, though she much prefers, as her husband does, their modest, old-fashioned mansion in the extreme southern portion of the city of Wilmington, overlooking Delaware bay. This home is well stored with paintings, books and works of art, as the family have inherited a taste for the finer things of life, which taste has been judiciously gratified, Mr. Bayard being possessed of moderate wealth. He is probably worth $100,000, $60,000 of which he inherited from his father.

Secretary of the Treasury.

DANIEL MANNING.

What Mr. Manning is he owes to himself. His boyhood was so hard and short that at 9 years of age he was forced to earn his living as office boy in The Albany Argus, where he learned to set type while making his way into William Cassidy, the editor's, good graces. He was a sturdy, bright-faced, active lad, with a direct, simple way of saying things that soon made him available as a reporter. In time Cassidy made him city editor, and on Cassidy's death years afterwards he stepped into his place. Perhaps the rarest luck that ever befell Daniel Manning was the liking William Cassidy took to him. The editor of The Argus was not only a keen politician, an accomplished scholar, and a brilliant writer, but he was one of the most highly bred men ever known in Albany society. From his honest Irish parents young Manning got the rugged constitution and powerful frame that have been to him more than a fortune and a college diploma. But from William Cassidy he learned suave courtesy and easy dignity. It has often been said that no man could associate with Cassidy and not learn to behave like a gentleman. Mr. Manning has been the president of a bank, a leader in the enterprise of Albany and the greatest single power in his community. He has great common sense and business sagacity, qualities that have made his paper a power and turned the opportunities it threw in his way into the roads to an honest and handsome fortune. He is an adroit and imperturable politician, who uses candidates rather than others in his game. He has never until now held an office, though he has disposed of many. He has long been a disciple of Samuel J. Tilden, and as chairman of the Democratic state committee has a national reputation.

Secretary of War.



WILLIAM CROWNINSHIELD ENDICOTT.

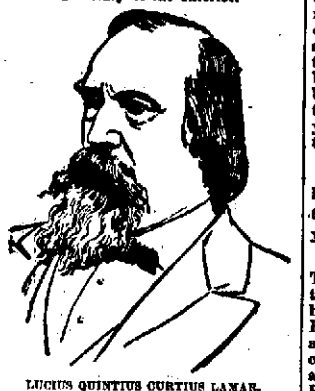
Ex-Judge Endicott was born in Salem about 1827. He attended the Salem schools and graduated from Harvard college in the class of 1847. He married his cousin, a daughter of George Peabody, and has two children, a son and daughter. His son graduated from Harvard college in the class of 1883. Judge Endicott was admitted to the bar about 1850. Governor Washburn appointed him to a seat on the supreme bench in 1873, which he held until 1882, when he resigned to make an extended tour of the continent for his health. He was a member of the Salem common council in 1852, 1853 and 1857, and city solicitor from 1858 to 1863. He is a member of the Massachusetts Historical society and of the board of overseers of Harvard college. Judge Endicott is a direct descendant from Governor John Endicott. Until the Bell and Everett campaign he was an old-line Whig. At that time he came into the Democratic party. As a lawyer he has been very thorough, and in pleading a case very dignified. As a judge he stood high in rank. He has never been prominent in politics, until he was the nominee of the Democratic party of Massachusetts for governor last fall, and although defeated he received a very handsome vote.

Secretary of the Navy.

WILLIAM C. WHITNEY.

William C. Whitney was born at Conway, Mass., forty-five years ago. He is the son of Gen. James S. Whitney, of Boston, and son-in-law of Henry B. Payne, of Ohio. He graduated at Yale in 1863, and then at Harvard law school. Coming to New York he took a desk in the office of Judge A. R. Lawrence. Here Whitney became familiar with the intricate laws of Gotham, which it afterwards became his duty as corporation counsel to enforce. His admission to the New York bar took place in 1864. His business for some time was chiefly in connection with corporations, in which he obtained a large practice. This was prior to his first appointment as corporation counsel of the city of New York, which took place in 1875, at a time when the Tweed ring affairs were still dragging through the courts. He held the office successively through the administrations of several mayors till 1882, when he resigned, as he said, for personal reasons. It is not to be presumed that because he proved the exception to Andrew Jackson's remark about officeholders—that few die and none resign—that the office was not an important one. The salary was $15,000 per year. The suits in the courts in which the city was involved seldom involved less than $10,000,000 to $20,000,000. Mr. Whitney is tall and lean, with a free and easy juvenile manner. He is fond of good dinners and good society.

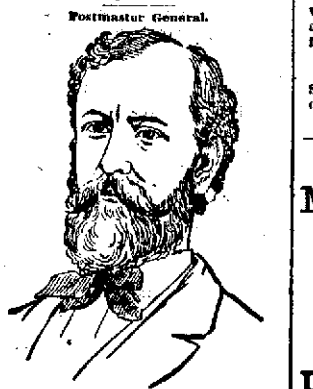
Secretary of the Interior.



LUCIUS QUINTIUS CURTIUS LAMAR.

Lucius Q. C. Lamar is a typical southerner not only in appearance, but by birth and training, and is unquestionably the brainiest man in southern politics. He is in his 60th year, and there is little in his appearance to indicate advanced age or physical weakness. He is a strong man. He has had a diversified and extremely interesting career. After his admittance to the bar at the age 23 his love for the society of young men, which is one of his strong characteristics, caused him to spend many years of his life as a tutor in various colleges. He was a member from Mississippi of the Thirty-fifth and Thirty-sixth congresses prior to the breaking out of the war, but resigned to take part in the secession convention of his state. In the Confederate army he won a colonelcy. After the war, while holding a professorship in the Mississippi university he was elected to the Forty-third and Forty-fourth congresses, and then elected to the United States senate in 1877, and re-elected in 1882. The eulogy of Charles Sumner, delivered by Mr. Lamar in the house of representatives, in March, 1874, was the advance step toward healing the sectional differences that existed between the north and south as a result of the war, and though he was bitterly denounced by his people for this speech he has continued in the policy of reconciliation, which has resulted in the present good feeling existing between the sections. Mr. Lamar is a widower, and lives in furnished lodgings in Washington. He knows and cares as little about money-making as a child, and is consequently poor.

Postmaster General.



WILLIAM F. VILAS.

Mr. Vilas was born at Chelsea, Orange county, Vt., July 9, 1840. When he was 11 years old he went to Wisconsin and entered as a pupil of the university of that state, and was graduated there in 1858, after which he studied law in Albany, N. Y., and was graduated from the law school of that city in 1860. Being admitted to the supreme court of New York he removed to Wisconsin, and in 1860 he made his first argument before the supreme court of that state. Upon the outbreak of the war Mr. Vilas entered the army as captain in the Twenty-third Wisconsin volunteers, and rose to be major and lieutenant colonel. He resigned his commission and resumed the practice of law Jan. 1, 1864. The supreme court of Wisconsin appointed Col. Vilas one of the revisors of the statutes in 1875, and the revision of 1878, adopted by the state, was partly made by him. In 1879 Mr. Vilas refused the use of his name as a candidate for the governorship of Wisconsin. He has persistently declined office, but went to Chicago as a delegate to the convention of 1884, which honored him with its permanent chairmanship.

Attorney General.

AUGUSTUS H. GARLAND.

Mr. Garland was born in Tennessee in 1832, and the next year his family removed to Arkansas. He was educated at the colleges of St. Mary and St. Joseph in Bardstown, Ky. After his admittance to the bar he immediately secured for himself the respect of his colleagues for his calm reasoning and unbiased good judgment. In 1861 he went with his state over to the Confederacy, and later was a member of both houses of the Confederate congress. He was elected to the United States senate in 1867, but was not admitted to his seat. This brought about the famous test oath case, in which Mr. Garland was finally successful. In 1874 he was elected governor of Arkansas, and since 1876 has represented that state in the United States senate, in which body he enjoyed the confidence of his colleagues. He is indefatigable in committee work; his legal knowledge and judicial impartiality have made him an invaluable member of the judiciary committee. He does not pay much attention to his personal appearance. He is a widower and has three children. He has a pleasant home on Massachusetts avenue in Washington and one at Little Rock, Ark.

Do you need a remedy that will cure every kind of humor from a pimple or eruption to the worst scrofula and syphilitic disorders, use Dr. Guysott's Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla. Three to five bottles cure skin disease, salt-rheum or tetter. Four to ten bottles cure running, ulcers, scrofula and all syphilitic disorders. One to three bottles cure sores, boils, carbuncles, etc. One to two bottles cures pimples on the face, blotches, etc. It is the only perfect blood purifier that can be made from a thorough knowledge of drugs. Ask your druggist for it. Take no substitute.

Senator Edmunds tells his friends that he is seriously thinking of retiring from the senate when his term expires, two years hence.

"Thick as leaves in Vallambrosa." This phrase was no doubt first applied to the testimonials of Mishler's Herb bitters, for they really seem countless. F. Hoffman, of Circleville, Ohio, sends along his contribution: "This is to certify that I have had the dum ague, and by using one bottle of Mishler's Herb bitters a complete cure has been effected."

Since Mr. Robert Lincoln entered the cabinet there has been no time when there has not been serious illness in his family.

DYSPEPSIA

Causes its victims to be miserable, hopeless, confused, and depressed in mind, very irritable, languid, and drowsy. It is a disease which does not get well of itself. It requires careful, persistent attention, and a remedy to throw off the causes and tone up the digestive organs till they perform their duties willingly. Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven just the required remedy in hundreds of cases.

"I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla for dyspepsia, from which I have suffered two years. I tried many other medicines, but none proved so satisfactory as Hood's Sarsaparilla." THOMAS COOK, Brush Electric Light Co., New York City.

Sick Headache

"For the past two years I have been afflicted with severe headaches and dyspepsia. I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and have found great relief. I cheerfully recommend it to all." Mrs. E. F. ANNABLE, New Haven, Conn.

Mrs. Mary C. Smith, Cambridgeport, Mass., was a sufferer from dyspepsia and sick headache. She took Hood's Sarsaparilla and found it the best remedy she ever used.

LOCAL NEWS.

The British museum is at last to be opened on Sundays.

Mr. Benjamin Miller, Thompsontown, Juniata county, Pa., in his seventy-sixth year, states that he injured his hand very badly at his trade as a cooper. A few applications of St. Jacobs Oil, the conqueror of pain, cured him completely.

Iceland has seven weekly newspapers and one monthly magazine.

Nutritious food is essential as a means of restoring a consumptive to health. A medicine that will strengthen the lungs and soothe all irritation is also necessary. Such a remedy is Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry. It is the only preparation of wild cherry that gives complete satisfaction. It quickly cures coughs and colds.

Secretary McCulloch will shortly return to his Maryland farm.

"Hope for a season bids the world farewell," when a man finds himself in the relentless grasp of neuralgia, but he smiles and takes heart and courage when his wife brings a bottle of Salvation Oil, the greatest cure on earth for pain.

Physicians say that about 14 per cent. of school children suffer from headache.

The combination, proportion and process in preparing Hood's Sarsaparilla, are peculiar to this medicine, and are unknown to others.

At Central City, Col., the Congregational church has been rented for a roller skating rink.

Salvation Oil delights everybody. It can be had of all druggists and dealers in medicines. It eradicates pain by quickly removing the cause. It is a specific for neuralgia, rheumatism, and pain in the side, back and limbs. Price 25 cents.

Sir Thomas Brassey, one of the richest men in the world, says that the life life of the rich man is not a happy one.

Something worth knowing. All those who are afflicted with colds, coughs, bronchitis, asthma throat or lung troubles or in fact any disease incidental to this season of the year, will find immediate and permanent relief in the use of Pond's Extract. It has cured thousands and it will cure you. The promptitude with which it gives relief is remarkable. Genuine in bottle only with buff wrappers.

A CARD.—To all who are suffering from errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you, free of charge. THE CITY.

It is predicted this is the last fall of snow of the season.

The water works trustees meet Monday evening in regular session.

The common council meets Tuesday night next in regular session.

Rt. Rev. Bishop Dwenger will cable his arrival in Europe to the Episcopal clergy here.

Miss Katie Chapin entertained the Y. P. S. F. C. society quite pleasantly last evening at her home.

Next Tuesday is regular pay day at the Murray and Bass foundries and the Horton Manufacturing company.

An affidavit has been filed in Justice Ryan's court, charging Amedeo Lazzarine with selling liquor on Sunday.

Jennie Lee could not pay a fine imposed by Justice France and Constable Robbins placed the female in jail yesterday.

Billy Burleigh gave an exhibition of fancy billiard shots at the Occidental last night. Burleigh was entertained by his old friend, D. R. McFeely.

The February car report shows that a total of 10,255 cars passed through Fort Wayne on the Wabash last month, as against 2,909 in February of last year.

There was a pleasant masquerade at the residence of W. B. Miller, on Fairfield avenue last evening. The affair was managed by the Misses Stella Spaulding and May Mills.

A. S. Evans, formerly of Fort Wayne, has succeeded in forming a citizens company to control and own water works at Riverside, Cal. The company has purchased the canals approaching the city.

C. D. Ambler, an Aboit township farmer, picked a valise near the Spangler farm yesterday. It held a suit of clothes and a revolver. There were evidences of a struggle about the satchel and the officers will investigate.

The Decatur Democrat continues to abuse Allen county people because they did not hang Richards, Let us see. Did not the Adams county people make about three attempts to string the prisoner up? They at least had an opportunity.

Mrs. Moore, a relative of Mrs. Bicknell, who keeps a boarding house on West Berry street, fell at Shuman's rink yesterday and fractured her arm. The lady was taken home in a carriage and Dr. I. N. Rosenthal put the bones together.

The iron work on the Belden bridge, on the Wabash road, is completed. Another iron bridge is in process of construction at Decatur, Ill., and the gang of men left for that point, Monday. The total cost of the Belden bridge, in round number, is said to have been $40,000.

Louis Centilvre returned from Chicago this morning. While at the Garden City he purchased 3,000 pounds of imported hops to manufacture the celebrated "Bohemian" beer. He also bought ten bales of native hops and eight car loads of choice Nebraska barley. This almost makes up a train.

General Manager Talmage, of the Wabash system, in conversation with a reporter of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, remarked that the cutting off of the St. Louis division of the Indiana, Bloomington and Western would not affect them. He supposed the Indianapolis, Decatur and Springfield will continue to operate the line.

The men who are laboring to wrest the Wabash road from Gould's control have been put in high clover by an injunction granted in the circuit court at St. Louis yesterday, restraining Jay Gould and some other directors from voting at the next annual election of officers of the Iron Mountain road, in which Gould holds $22,000,000 of stock as trustee.

The Indiana senate has passed a bill which will make the county recorder's office one of the best, instead of the poorest within the gift of the people, and provided the house sanctions its action the bill will become a law. It proposes to have all mortgage notes of every description recorded just as chattle mortgages and mortgages on real estate are recorded.

Kerns, the counterfeiter, has been committed to jail for trial in default of $500 bail. Kerns has material for making money. The imitation is a counterfeit on the New Orleans mint, and bears date of issue in different years. It has a splendid metalic ring and good color. Its imperfections consist in slight undue thickness, not being as heavy by one-fourth the weight of the genuine and a small elevation occurring between the letter "u" and "r" in the word "pluribus."

A. L. Griebel, the gentlemanly county auditor, sends THE SENTINEL the sixth annual report of the state bureau of statistics for 1884, which has just been issued. The volume for the retired year has over 500 pages, containing carefully prepared tables on all the various subjects contemplated by the law. Agriculture, economics, manufactories railroads, the social condition of our people and vital statistics, interspersed by interesting reading matter on various subjects.

All trains at the south depot were a little late this morning.

The suits against Lazzarine and Miller, saloon men, were dismissed.

Freight traffic continues to be lively on all lines running east and west.

White's spoke factory is running eleven hours a day, and receiving big orders every mail.

Christopher Kelly asks THE SENTINEL to say he will be a candidate for city marshal in the spring.

The Northern Indiana Poultry association will meet Monday night at the office of Welsh & Baker.

William Sutton, formerly an employe of the Pittsburg at this place, is now in business at Kansas City.

Tracy Noll has been granted a permit to erect a story and a half house on lot twelve, Hanna's addition, to cost $400.

Ida Strauss and Jennie Dickson, bad girls, were fined this afternoon on the strength of their character. They go to jail.

Fred Hollenbeck, the baggage master at the Wabash depot, will be on duty again Monday. He has been ill for some time.

The Cook county democratic club, one hundred strong, passed through the city last night, en route to their homes in Chicago.

Superintendent Stevens, of the Wabash, is in the city attempting to compromise the existing trouble with striking employes.

A new grocery will be opened on the corner of Calhoun and Highland streets. It will be operated by a preacher and a Pittsburg engineer.

Rev. T. T. Cooney, who lectures here the night of St. Patrick's day, is noted as a temperance lecturer and his efforts in that field have made him famous.

There was a notice posted in the Wabash freight office at this point, signed by Supt. George W. Stevens, saying that he expected to pay the men here at 3 p. m.

There is no trouble in the ladies relief auxilliary to the grand army posts. A little trouble exists in Silon S. Bass post but it will soon be forgotten in war songs.

R. E. Doty, the Pittsburg engineer who was so seriously injured by jumping from his engine a few weeks ago, is able to walk around, and will soon be at his post again.

Christ Miller, who was before Justice France on a charge of selling liquor on Sunday, did not appear for trial yesterday and forfeited a bond he furnished to insure his presence.

The meetings at Christian chapel are a source of encouragement to church and pastor. Nine were received into membership last Lord's day, and there are others to be received to-morrow morning.

H. E. Fisher, the Staats Zeitung business manager, celebrated the anniversary of his birth yesterday. Last night the clever newspaper man entertained a party of friends and hours flew while Henry related spicy incidents of pioneer life in Fort Wayne. Mr. Fisher knew General Anthony Wayne intimately and often dined with the warrior.

The indications for the lower lake region, as reported by the weather bureau at Washington to THE SENTINEL, are as follows: Local snows and partly cloudy weather, northerly winds, rising temperature in eastern portion, stationary temperature in the western portion; rising barometer in western portion, falling followed by rising in eastern portion.

Judge Woods, of the federal court, at Indianapolis, yesterday heard arguments for a new trial in the attachment case of Ed A. Pierr, of Fort Wayne. An attachment on Pierr's stock of millinery goods had been granted to Hood, Bonbright & Co., of Philadelphia, for a debt of $3,115, but was afterward overruled by the court. The judge has not yet spoken on the new trial.

STILL REFUSE TO LABOR.

The Wabash Men Continue Their Strike Against the Ten Per Cent. Reduction

---A Card From the Strikers.

There is nothing startling to note in connection with the Wabash strike. The men still refuse to work and have induced several strangers, transported here to take their positions, to join them in the war against the ten per cent. reduction. Thirty or forty men are now at work and they are not menaced. Many other mechanics not in the strike remain away from the shops so as not to engender the lasting enmity of the strikers. Last night the strikers met at Driscoll's hall with the Fort Wayne Lodge Knights of Labor, who have opened their treasury to the strikers, as the following communication, sent THE SENTINEL by the strikers, attest:

DRISCOLL'S HALL,
Fort Wayne, March 6, 1885.

The following resolution was adopted by the unanimous vote of the Wabash strikers at their meeting last night:

Resolved, That the Wabash shopmen, now on a strike, do hereby return their heartfelt thanks for the donation and financial assistance given us by sympathizing citizens.

[Signed] X. Y. Z., Chairman.
W. K. 10, Secretary.

TALMAGE'S PROPOSITION.

This afternoon Master Mechanic Barnes received an official circular signed by General Manager Talmage and Master Mechanic Johann. The circular agrees to pay the Wabash men here the highest wages paid in Fort Wayne and guarantees them ten hours work for nine months in the year. From Nov. 1 to Dec. 1, nine hours, and from Dec. 1 to Feb. 1 eight hours. The circular insists that the men must report before 7 o'clock tonight for duty Monday. All who do not comply will be laid off, discharged, blacklisted and subject to employment thereafter only on the good will of Mr. Talmage.

The Wabash boiler shop is in operation and Monday all departments will resume. A deputy United States marshal arrived this morning and posted notices on the shop doors. The order forbids men to loiter about the premises of the railroad company and promises prompt arrest to all people who intimidate or incite men to strike. The order comes direct from the United States court. The employes were paid this afternoon and it is believed they will return to work Monday. A majority of them so signified themselves this afternoon.

"A Quarter of a Cup of Tea."

"Yes, madam," said the Exminie, "Just a quarter of a cup of tea, if you please, and half a slice of toast. That is all I can eat before preaching this evening, for my dyspepsia is so bad." The poor man preached an awfully dry sermon, which put his hearers to sleep. But why should a minister have dyspepsia so long as Brown's Iron Bitters is to be had at the drug stores? The Rev. Mr. Offley, of Newbern, N. C., says, "I consider Brown's Iron Bitters one of the best medicines known."

They Will Surely Find You.

They are looking for you everywhere. Drafts of air in unexpected places, going from hot rooms to cool ones, carelessness in changing clothing: In short anything which ends in a common cold in the head. Unless arrested this kind of cold becomes seated in the mucous membrane of the head. Then it is catarrh. In any and all its stages this disease always yields to Ely's Cream Balm. Safe, agreeable, certain. Price 50 cents.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferers at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain; and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

WHITE SEAL BURNING OIL

The New York board of health estimates that 20,000 lives have been destroyed by the explosive qualities of petroleum. If every household would adopt the White Seal oil for family use, none of these unfortunate accidents would occur.

WHITE SEAL BURNING OIL

has none of the defects usually found in common oils. It cannot be exploded, does not char the wick, will not smoke, emits no offensive odor, and prevents the breaking of chimneys.

WHITE SEAL BURNING OIL

is a rich oil for illuminating purposes. It is as light in color as pure water. It gives a strong steady light, and burns much longer than common oils.

If this oil is not sold in your vicinity, send your order direct to us for a barrel or a case containing two five gallon cans.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.

EPPS'S COCOA.

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.
